

Vice Chairman Momyer –

The following question was relayed to me via the Ohio Republican Party, that you were asked at the Harrison County Fair:

What plan do the Republicans have to lower taxes and bring jobs to Ohio other than gambling?

In response:

As you know, there are approximately 16 months until the 2010 election, and over that time the Kasich for Ohio campaign will be rolling out a number of plans to address the very serious issues that face Ohio. Included in that will be a plan(s) to the lower taxes and an effort to bring jobs back to our state.

In previous comments, John Kasich has laid out the need to eliminate the Death Tax immediately and to phase out the state income tax over a number of years, which is the hurdle that prevents Ohio from bringing and keeping business, and jobs, in our state. As Governor, John Kasich will make Ohio more attractive to businesses so they will choose to locate in Ohio, as well as keeping those existing Ohio businesses from moving.

I hope this is helpful to you and please let me know if you have any further questions.
